Poetry : 3 The Shed.

Poetry

Soul of the Poem

There is a shed at the bottom of the poet's garden and the poet wishes to visit it one day. There is a spider's web on the door of the shed and its hinges are rusty and creak when the wind blows. The poet often thinks about it while lying in his bed. On one side of the shed, there is a dusty window and three of its window panes are broken. The poet feels as if someone stares at him through the window and whenever the poet visit the shed he would like to find out who lives there.

The poet's brother informs him that a ghost lives inside the shed and if the poet dares to enter the shed, the ghost would chop off his head. Despite these warnings, the poet believes that his brother tells him imaginative stories about the ghost as he wants to keep the shed for himself. The poet no longer feels anyone staring at him or hears any strange noises coming from the shed. The spider, too, is no longer there. Thus, very soon he should go inside the shed.

Stanzawise Explanation of The Poem

Stanza 1

There's shed at the bottom of our garden
With a spider's web hanging across the door,
The hinges are rusty and creak in the wind.
When I'm in bed I lie and I listen,
I'll open that door one day

Reference :

"The above lines have been taken from Frank Flynn's poem, 'The Shed.'

Context

The poet in these lines is describing a shed that is at the bottom of his garden.

Explanation

At the bottom of the garden, there is a shed. Hardly anybody goes inside the shed, therefore, the hinges or the door joints have become rusty and make a lot of noise whenever the wind makes them move. When the poet is peacefully lying in the bed, he sometimes hears noised from the shed. The poet wished to be able to open the door of the shed some day.

Stanza 2

There's dusty old window around at the side
With three cracked panes of glass,
I often think there's someone staring at me
Each time that I pass
I 'll peep through that window one day.

Reference :

"The above lines have been taken from Frank Flynn's poem, 'The Shed.'

Context

The poet discusses how he wishes to stare inside the shed.

Explanation

The shed has a dusty old window on its side. Three glass panes of the window are broken. Whenever, the poet passes through the shed, he gets the feeling as if someone was staring at him. To find out, the poet wishes to peep inside the shed.

Stanza 3

My brother says there's ghost in the shed
Who hides under the rotten floorboards,
And if I ever dare to set foot inside
He'll jump out and chop off my head,
But I'll take a peek one day.

Reference :

"The above lines have been taken from Frank Flynn's poem, 'The Shed.'

Context

In these lines, the poet discusses how his brother warns him about the ghost inside the shed.

Explanation

The poet's brother talks about the presence of the ghost inside the shed and warns the poet that if he went inside the shed, the ghost would chop off his head. However, this does not much frighten the poet. He still wished to one day step inside the shed and see for himself.

Stanza 4

I know that there isn't really a ghost,
My brother tells lies to keep the shed for his den;
There isn't anyone staring or making strange noises
And the spider has been gone from his web
Since I don't know when,
I'll go into that shed one day soon,
But not just yet _____

Reference :

"The above lines have been taken from Frank Flynn's poem, 'The Shed.'

Context

The poet, in these lines, seems to have grown enough to understand the truth.

Explanation

The poet is able to overcome his fears. He is able to understand that there is no ghost inside the shed. He understands that there is actually nobody inside the shed, who stares at him or makes those strange noises. The spider, too, is no longer there. His brother had been telling him lies because he wanted to retain the shed for his own self. Therefore, very soon the poet would be able to set in foot inside the shed. However, he says that this can't happen immediately.

Working with the Poem*i) Who is the speaker in the poem?

It is not very clear who the speaker is perhaps, the speaker is the poet himself..

ii) Is she/ he afraid or curious or both?

The speaker seems to be both curious as well as afraid to go inside the shed. He wants to find out what is inside the shed.

At the same time, he is afraid because he thinks that strange voices could be heard from here and there is possibly a ghost who lives inside the shed,

iii) What is she / he planning to do soon?

He / She plans to go inside the shed after some day soon.

iv) "But not just yet _____ " suggests doubt, fear, hesitation, laziness or something else. Choose the word which seems right to you. Tell others why you chose it.

" But not just yet ____"seems to suggest lack of preparation, The speaker wants to be further certain and prepare himself for this Endeavour. He has already overcome his fears, so there is no fear. However ; waiting for the right time could be a reason fir postponing the act.

2. Is there a room in your house or a house in your neighbourhood / locality where you would rather not go along, and never at night? If there is such a place and a story to go with it let others hear all about it.

There is a store room in my house which is in the backyard of the house. It is a little away from the main structure. It is full of odd objects and not even little away from the main structure. It is full of odd objects and no even lit properly. Thus, going to the store room, at night, calls for a lot of courage. My mother once asked me to fetch certain things from the store room , I felt as if I saw the movement of shadows. I felt as if I saw the movement of shadows. I screamed with terror , but later I got to know that those shadows were nothing but my mind's imagination.

Chapter Practice

Very Short Answer Type Questions

1. Why were the hinge of the door rusty?

Hardly anybody went inside the shed. Since the doors were not opened for a long time, its hinges had become rusty.

2. What does the speaker usually do while lying in the bed ?

The speaker generally contemplated the idea of going inside the shed.

3. What does the broken glass window suggest?

The broken glass panes of the dusty window suggested lack of maintenance. There was hardly anybody who went inside the shed, so cleaning the shed was a distant possibility.

4. According to the speaker's brother, where did the ghost hid himself?

According to the speaker's brother, the ghost hid himself under the rotten floorboards of the shed.

Short Answer Type Questions

1. What did the speaker's brother, say about the shed?

The speaker's brother talked about the presence of a ghost inside the shed.

He also warned the speaker that if he ever went inside the shed, the ghost might chop off his head. Saying so, the speaker's brother frightened the speaker.

2. Comment on the speaker's resolve to go inside the shed.

From our reading of the poem, it becomes amply clear that the speaker is fully determined to go inside the shed, the ghost might chop off his head. Saying so, the speaker is fully determined to go inside the shed. Even when his brother threatens him, he does not give up the idea of going inside to find for himself the truth. His desire to visit only gets postponed and delayed.

3. What change occurs in the attitude of the speaker?

In the first three stanzas the speaker seems to be scared of the shed. He thinks about the strange voices that come from the shed, somebody mysteriously staring at him, he believed in the ghost stories and so on. However, in the final stanza of the poem, there seems to be a major change in the speaker's attitude,

He has understood that all these ghost stores were a lie told to him. And, therefore, his resolve to go inside the shed becomes further him.

4. Why do you think that the spider web hanging on the door was no longer there?

The first time when the speaker describes the shed, the speaker talks about a shed. However, the next time when the speaker describes the shed, the speaker shares that it had been a long time since the spider and the web were not to be seen.

Perhaps, the door of the shed had been opened by the speaker's brother, thereby displacing the spider's web that covered the door.
